

Cognitio College
(Kowloon)

Newsletter

15 March 2022

COGNITIO COLLEGE

6 MUK HUNG STREET, KOWLOON
CITY, KOWLOON.
23231741, 23231742
<http://www.cckin.edu.hk>

A Word of Special Thanks from Our School Supervisor

9 March 2022

Mr. Poon Shun Kwok, Albert, our School Supervisor, has delivered his word of thanks to our staff for remaining steadfast in duties at this difficult time via a letter of appreciation. To quote from the letter, "I strongly believe that our staff will embrace our core value of the caring culture and the mission of "gratitude" laid in Cognitio College, overcome the hurdles ahead and serve for the betterment of our students".

Anti-epidemic materials for S6 students

Special thanks should be given to 3 of our alumni. Mr. Wilson Chong, Ms. Daisy Lai and Ms. Culsin Li generously donated packages of anti-epidemic materials to cheer up our S6 students in preparation for 2022 HKDSE examination. The packs comprise rapid antigen test kits, KN95 face masks, face shields, disinfection spray and pulse oximeters. Each S6 student will receive an anti-epidemic pack upon distribution of their Admission Forms by the school soon.

Co-curricular Activities and Extra Classes during Special Vacation

17 March – 24 April 2022

To facilitate physical, intellectual and mental wellness of students, the school will organize interesting online activities for them. Our native English-speaking teachers will conduct fun English activities for our S1-5 students. Co-curricular activities include yoga, dancing, singing, acting, musical instrument and art classes, as well as board games and science quiz. Students are also invited to share their meaningful experiences via the online platform administered by the Student Union. Again, students should avoid going out for social distancing purpose, but instead participate actively in the activities arranged by the school. Stay safe and healthy!

Principal's Message

It is at present our difficult moment as our time together has been restrained, with many learning experiences curtailed, and some staff, students and parents infected. While the COVID-19 epidemic remains to be severe, I understand that it may have elicited a plethora of emotions, and even anxiety.

I want to express my heartfelt gratitude to different parties for their contributions to our school. Our teachers continue to conduct their teaching and offer pastoral support to our students online. Our Vice Principals, office staff, assistants and janitors, who station at the school campus, provide services for and maintain communications with our stakeholders. Our alumni have also donated anti-epidemic materials to our S6 students.

As Mr. Poon, our School Supervisor, has mentioned in his letter, "The sun will rise again even after the darkest night". Let's work together and stay positive in facing the threat of the virus.